Did You Know...

Dogs, by nature are highly social animals. When a dog is isolated for long periods of time, their mental health can suffer due to increased stressed levels. This can result in many behavior problems: including barking, whining and howling, destruction, as well as boredom and depression.

Daycare is probably one of the most important gifts you can give to your dog – and yourself. Regular play with other dogs builds good socialization skills and eliminates owner-absent behavior problems. In most cases, dogs who attend doggy daycare regularly are transformed into healthier, calmer, and more easily controlled pets.

We recommend that your pet attend doggy daycare at least 1 time a week and preferably on the same day/days each week, when possible. Dogs are routine animals; they will actually know when it is “daycare day”. If they miss daycare several times, the introductory process has to be completed all over again, and become very stressful on your dog. It can be compared to starting kindergarten again and again.
